Law enforcement officers are public employees whose responsibilities include protecting the lives and property of citizens. There are law enforcement officers on different levels and their duties are determined by the size and type of organizations.

Policing is many careers in one. With all the various policing agencies across Canada many opportunities are available to you. Competition is tough. Education is the key

Classes are small and learn from instructors with related experience. The courses will give you a solid introduction into criminal law, procedural law within the justice system to psychology and criminology. Students will have hands-on experience in areas of conflict management, interviewing, note and report writing and investigation/interviewing techniques.

McKay Career Training is proud to offer this program for Criminal Justice. It is the only College in Saskatchewan that offers this one year diploma.
